Where to watch birds...

in the Camargue Regional Nature Park - France

The Camargue is the largest wetland in France and is renowned internationally for nature conservation and the protection of birds. Approximately two thirds of all birds found in Europe can be observed in the Camargue, making it a favourite destination for both professional and amateur ornithologists.

Situated on the crossroads of Africa, Europe and the Mediterranean, the Camargue represents an important stopover for the hundreds of thousands of migrating birds that pass through each year. It is also home to the only Greater Flamingo nesting site in France.

With the aim of promoting and protecting its unique natural and cultural heritage, the Camargue was classified as a Biophere Reserve by UNESCO in 1977 and a large section of it has been designated as a Regional Nature Park since 1970.
The vast wetland zone of the Camargue Regional Nature Park, on the delta where the Rhone meets the Mediterranean Sea, is of huge environmental and cultural interest.

Various economic activities have developed in this rural area, such as tourism, hunting, fishing, rice production and horse and cattle farming... The Camargue is made up of a number of private estates which are not always open to the general public.

To help you to enjoy your birdwatching experience in the best possible conditions, we’ve put together this booklet describing a number of the best observation sites and their different approaches for observing birds:

- trails with free access on sites of low sensitivity
- trails with purpose built hides on sites of special interest
- guided tours on highly sensitive and protected sites

We wish you a very enjoyable stay in the Camargue and hope you make the most of your time here. Please keep in mind that it’s the responsibility of each and every one of us to safeguard the area’s natural beauty.

The Marais du Vigueirat
Nature Reserve

The Vigueirat marshes belong to the « Conservatoire du Littoral » coastal protection agency. They stretch over 1 200 hectares where meet the remarkable ecosystems of the Rhone delta and the Crau steppe. Many plant and animal species can be observed here including over 300 species of birds. Explore this exceptional reserve via a 15 km network of tracks, either with or without a tour guide, by foot or by horse and cart. For a closer insight, choose the option of a 5 km tour at the heart of the reserve with a professional nature guide.

Open from February to December 10:00 - 17:00.
Cafe open for drinks and snacks from April to September.
Free parking and picnic areas.
Access to the « Starling » trails is free. Advance booking necessary for guided tours.

Acquired by the « Tour du Valat Foundation » research centre in 2003, the Verdier marshes are managed by the organisation « Les marais du Verdier » in association with the residents of the adjacent village, Sambuc. The site covers four ancient fishing basins totalling 120 hectares and consists of a variety of different habitats (reedbeds, freshwater and salt marshes, lagoons, Tamarix groves). It’s a haven for waterbirds. An observation platform and hide provide convenient viewing points.

Nature trails are free to access all year round. Park in Sambuc village then pass down the side of the football field and cross the wooden footbridge. A notebook has been made available in the cabin where you are invited to make a note of your observations.

Covering 13,000 hectares in the heart of the Camargue, the Natural Reserve is one of the largest wetland nature reserves in Europe. Its uniqueness and special interest to international heritage rests in its ecological function, as well as the vast diversity of inhabitants and species that are found there (in particular the 276 bird species, of which 258 are of special interest). The site has been managed by the national society for the protection of nature since 1927 and was officially classed as a nature reserve in 1975. The Capelière visitor centre on the reserve is where you can find all the information that you need concerning the various nature trails and sites of interest in the area (La Capelière, Salin-de-Badon, Étang du Vaccarès, etc).

Open every day from April to September: 09:00 - 13:00 and 14:00 - 18:00 and from October to March, apart from on Tuesdays: 09:00 - 13:00 and 14:00 - 17:00. Entrance: €3.

To follow the tracks around Mas de Pont de Rousty is to immerse oneself in the fluvio-lacustrine zone of the Camargue where the natural habitat (reedbed marshes) is influenced by freshwater sediments brought in by the Rhone and various agricultural activities such as rice and cattle production. Here, 80 hectares of reedbeds provide home to a wide range of birdlife (herons and reed passerines). The seasonal flooding of these fields of bulrushes creates feeding grounds for waders in spring and ducks in winter. A purpose-built hide allows for the easy observation of these birds.

Nature trails with observation points and hides. Open all year round. Free to enter.

Information and starting point at the « Musée de la Camargue ».

Property of the « Conservatoire du Littoral » coastal protection agency, the Palissade estate reaches over 702 hectares on the south-eastern territory of the Camargue, on the estuary of the Grand Rhone. The estate works actively to promote environmental protection and education. From here is a great place to visit the last remaining natural space in the Camargue that hasn’t been the subject of embankment work. Choose between three trails of 1 km, 5 km or 8 km from which you can discover, with or without a professional guide, an archetypal Camargue landscape full of many types of wildlife.

Open every day from 09:00 - 17:00 (closed on Mondays and Tuesdays from mid-November to February) Closed 11/11, 25/12, 01/01 and 01/05. Entrance : Adults 3€ (Children go free). Advance booking necessary for guided tours.

They du Mazet

Situated on the south side of the town Port Saint Louis du Rhône, the « They du Mazet » was acquired by the « Conservatoire du Littoral » coastal protection agency in 1980 and consists of a dune formation sculpted by the actions of the river and sea. An integral part of the Camargue delta, this zone is a feeding, resting and breeding ground for many types of birds. During high waters, the area becomes flooded by seawater, giving rise to a saline soil and a unique and abundant vegetation pattern.

A purpose-built track with information panels is open and free to access all year round, (outside of rainy conditions).

This booklet has provided the opportunity to showcase the work of environmental managers, farmers, restaurant owners and people working in the tourist industry that have committed to high quality standards and sustainable development via the following labels:

- The label « Camargue Regional Nature Park » is given to produce and services that are specific to the region. Holders of this label must build their business on a human scale, uphold local traditions and value and preserve the environment in which they work in conjunction with solid local connections.

- The European Charter for Sustainable Tourism in protected areas aims to assure that tourism within protected spaces throughout Europe contributes to a balanced economic, social and environmental development. Tourist operators that sign up to this charter promote responsible and sustainable tourism.

- Le « Conservatoire Grand Sud des Cuisines » is an association between professional chefs and local producers with the aim of promoting Mediterranean culinary heritage. The prerequisite of this label is the utilisation of fresh, authentic, seasonal produce and the valorisation of its regional identity and taste, as well as its nutritional aspects.

Park advice

You are in a Regional Nature Park

- Park only in designated areas and don’t leave anything valuable in your vehicle
- Don’t forget to carry a bottle of drinking water at all times
- Don’t forget your sun cream and insect repellent
- Stay on the path, do not enter onto private property and don’t climb over any fences
- Do respect animals and keep the noise down
- Don’t leave anything behind, especially rubbish
- Nature is at its best early in the morning or late in the afternoon
- Avoid going out before 9:30 am during the hunting season (mid-September - mid-January)
- Check the weather forecast before leaving the house and avoid going out in high wind
